of evidence. "In 1925 the village of Vareille in Northern France was terrorised by what was thought to be a mad dog or a wolf. One night after a young child had been mauled in it's cot, an animal like a wolf was seen running from the house and was fired at and wounded by a policeman. The next day, the police followed the blood trail which led to the cottage of a farm labourer, long suspected of practising witchcraft.
